Mahoney: Post City Job Openings Online

By SCOTT JACKSON

A new ordinance proposed by Councillor Anne Mahoney would require city officials to post job openings online.

Mahoney introduced the ordinance during the council's meeting on Feb. 3. The item was referred to the ordinance committee, which Mahoney chairs, for consideration in the future.

Of the top ten most populous cities in Massachusetts, Quincy is the only one not to post job openings on its website, Mahoney said.

"They all advertise and post their employment vacancies," she said. "We're the eighth largest city in the commonwealth of Massachusetts, and we do not."

"The city of Quincy has grown tremendously and it's an opportunity for the city

$5.15M Sought For Sewer Work

By SCOTT JACKSON

Mayor Thomas Koch wants to tap into an MWRA program to finance a study of the city's sewer system and then make high-priority repairs.

The study and subsequent repairs would cost a combined $5.15 million.

Koch submitted a pair of requests for the funding to the City Council on Feb. 3. The items were referred to the finance committee for consideration at a later time.

The first appropriation would be for $817,961. In a memo provided to councillors, Public Works Commissioner Al Grazioso said the money would be used to fund a citywide sewer system evaluation study.

The second appropriation is for $4.33 million. Those funds would be used to make the highest priority repairs identified by the study, Grazioso said. The repair work would take place later this year and into early 2021.

The city is seeking funds from the MWRA's infiltration and inflow reduction program to finance those appropriations. Under the MWRA program, 75 percent of the money, $3.86 million, would come in the form of a grant while the remaining 25 percent, $1.29 million, would be received as an interest-free loan that would be paid back over the next decade.

Emergency Management Community Response Course March 11-April 29

Quincy Emergency Management, in collaboration with the Quincy Police Department and Brewster Ambulance, will hold a Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) training course from March 11-April 29.

The course will meet for eight consecutive weekly sessions on Wednesday evenings from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at the Richard J. Koch Family Park & Recreation Complex, 1 Merrymount Pkwy.

Participants will receive training in disaster preparedness, basic sheltering, light search and rescue, medical operations, and fire safety. CERT training offers an approach to volunteer training and organization that provides members with the knowledge to assist public safety professionals during disaster situations.

Through CERT training, citizens can enhance their overall capabilities to prepare for and assist others in their community when disasters strike. Course registration is ongoing and Quincy residents will have priority.

Led by the city's new environmental scientist, Julie Sullivan, the tour will explore the ecology of the island, including the environmental benefits of salt marshes, estuaries and oak trees.

Waterproof boots are required as participants will be walking through a couple of inches of water to get to the island. Binoculars and a walking stick are recommended.

No registration is required. Meet at the intersection of Thornton Street and Meadowbrook Road. Call 617-472-0799 on Saturday morning after 8:30 a.m. to see if tour will be rescheduled. Even if it is a beautiful sunny day, if conditions are too icy, the tour will be rescheduled. The salt marsh and island can have snow and ice even when the rest of Quincy is bare.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Feb. 26, 1564, poet and playwright Christopher Marlowe is baptized in Canterbury, England, two months before the birth of his fellow playwright William Shakespeare. Historians believe Marlowe served as a spy for Queen Elizabeth while at Cambridge. He was nearly denied his master's degree in 1587, until the queen's advisers intervened.

• On Feb. 27, 1827, a group of masked and costumed students dance through the streets of New Orleans, marking the beginning of the city's famous Mardi Gras celebrations. Early French settlers brought the tradition of Mardi Gras to the U.S. Gulf Coast at the end of the 17th century.

• On Feb. 24, 1868, the U.S. House of Representatives votes 11 articles of impeachment against President Andrew Johnson, nine of which cite Johnson's removal of Secretary of War Edwin M. Stanton, a violation of the Tenure of Office Act. He was the first president to be impeached in U.S. history.

• On Feb. 25, 1873, Enrico Caruso, the greatest tenor who ever lived, is born. Caruso recorded scores of arias of three and four minutes in length -- the longest duration that could fit on a 78 rpm record.

• On Feb. 29, 1940, "Gone with the Wind" is honored with eight Oscars, including one for Hattie McDaniel for her portrayal of "Mammy," a housemaid and former slave. She was the first African American actor ever to win an Oscar.

• On March 1, 1961, President John Kennedy issues Executive Order No. 10924 to establish the Peace Corps, which would send trained American men and women to foreign nations to assist in development efforts.

• On Feb. 28, 1983, the celebrated sitcom "M*A*S*H" bows out after 11 seasons, airing a special two-and-a-half hour episode watched by 77% of the viewing audience. It was the largest percentage at the time ever to watch a single TV show.

The Fight To Save Our Memories

By BRUCE J. AYERS
State Representative

Nearly 20 years ago, my family and I received the news that my mother, Beverly, was suffering from Alzheimer's Disease.

That diagnosis changed everything for us. Alzheimer's and other forms of dementia are all-encompassing, not just for the person diagnosed, but for their loved ones. All of a sudden, at the drop of a dime, our lives revolved around taking care of our mother in her time of need.

The struggle of watching a loved one lose their memory before your eyes is unthinkable for most of us. It is a process that robs you of everything. But on top of the emotional toll it extracts, it also creates significant obligations that many people simply cannot meet.

At least in this regard, my brother Chuck and I were the lucky ones. We both lived close by, and we were able to ensure that our mom could stay in the comfort of her own home throughout her battle. We arranged our schedules so one of us would be with her at all times, switching off nights sleeping at her house, spending mornings and afternoons driving her to appointments, and making sure for all the time in between that she was never alone. When she succumbed to her illness in 2009, she did so in the home where she built a life and raised her family.

Unfortunately, due to astronomical financial obligations that come with a diagnosis, that simple dignity is one that many people battling Alzheimer's or dementia do not receive.

The Alzheimer's Association estimates that over 5.8 million Americans are living with Alzheimer's disease. It is the 6th leading cause of death in the country, with 1 in 3 seniors dying with Alzheimer's or dementia. Alzheimer's is among the most expensive diseases in the entire country, with the average lifetime cost of care for an individual with Alzheimer's or dementia estimated at $350,174.

In Massachusetts, the most recent data shows that over 130,000 people live with Alzheimer's. This places the burden of the disease not only on the person diagnosed, but on an estimated 337,000 family caregivers.

As a State Representative, my legislative agenda has been shaped in large part by my personal experiences. The issues I saw my mom face, as well as the issues I've encountered in my 35 years as a business owner converting vans for handicapped individuals, are why I always request to serve on the Committee on Elder Affairs.

However, it's not only my personal experiences that shape my work on Beacon Hill, but the experiences my constituents bring to me as well. In 2017, I met with Mr. Jerry Ceurvels, and with his permission, would like to recount his story.

Jerry had worked for many years as a Quincy firefighter, and with his wife Jeanne had raised two kids. His life was turned upside-down when Jeanne was diagnosed with early-onset Alzheimer's, at just age 51.

Jeanne's diagnosis changed her life and the lives of her entire family. Instead of planning their retirement together, Jerry and Jeanne were forced to make plans for her impending medical needs - with scarce options. Their struggle uncovered a loophole in Massachusetts law that does an injustice to those who face the greatest challenge of their lifetimes.

MassHealth operates the "Frail Elder Waiver", which helps cover costs for residents who require nursing home-level care; it allows them to receive those services at home, rather than in a nursing or assisted living facility. However, it sets a minimum age requirement of 60 years old - a threshold Jeanne still had 9 years left to meet at the time of her diagnosis.

Jerry and Jeanne were faced with even more complications in an already unthinkable situation for their family. Aside from the age requirement, Jeanne met all other criteria to receive services through the Frail Elder Waiver. When they asked MassHealth whether there was anything they could do, they were informed that the only way Jeanne could qualify under the age of 60 was if she were single.

In other words: get divorced, or don't receive coverage for the services you need.

For Jerry, divorce was not an option. He used up all of his paid leave at the fire department, and had to take an early retirement as Jeanne's disease progressed. He faced significant financial struggles that will impact him for the rest of his life - and while he kept his wife at home for as long as he could, she is now in a full-time care facility.

Jerry still visits his wife every day. Her condition continues to decline, while the services she needs drains her loved ones of their financial stability.

After hearing Jerry and Jeanne's story, I filed bill H598, "An Act relative to early-onset Alzheimer's disease". This bill would simply get rid of the age requirement of the Frail Elder Waiver, so those diagnosed with early-onset Alzheimer's or dementia under the age of 60 would not be left behind.

This is a small population, but one that is desperately in need. They deserve to stay in their homes - and their loved ones deserve a safety net to ensure they don't experience significant financial hardship.

To date, 119 of my colleagues have joined me as co-sponsors of my bill - the 98 State Reps and 22 State Senators who have attached their name in support reflect a majority in both chambers. The bill was heard before the Committee on Elder Affairs, and I joined Jerry Ceurvels in providing testimony; it has since received a favorable report, and is moving forward in the legislative process.

There is further reason for optimism, as in 2018 Massachusetts passed a first-of-its-kind omnibus bill that devotes significant funds to Alzheimer's and dementia research. While we still have a long way to go to find a cure, we inch closer and closer every day.

If you believe, as I do, that people impacted by early-onset Alzheimer's disease deserve better, we need your help: now is the time to spread the word. No family deserves to lose a loved one this way, and insurmountable medical expenses simply add insult to injury.

I know from personal experience that Alzheimer's is a thief with a 100% success rate. It has stolen loved ones and irreplaceable memories from countless people, with millions more still to be impacted. We cannot let it steal their financial stability as well.

of Quincy to open up transparency for those open positions and to ensure that the most qualified candidates are now able to apply for municipal opportunities."

Ward 4 Councilor Brian Palmucci said Mahoney's proposal made sense.

"I think this is something that makes sense," he said. "We want the best and most talented people to work for the city and this is the first step."

Quincy's website, quincy-ma.gov, does have a page for employment information under the Human Resources Department's page. The page states that most jobs are union positions and are first advertised internally. The page also includes an employment application that would-be employees can fill out and return to the city; it states outside candidates who do submit applications would be considered for an opening if no qualified candidates are available within the union.

The city's employment information page also includes information on the state's Civil Service system, which is used to hire new recruits new for the Fire and Police Departments.

The school system's website, quincypublicschools.com, includes information on job openings. Employment opportunities are likewise posted on the website for the municipally owned Quincy College, quincycollege.edu.

AAA: Gasoline Prices Down Four Cents

Gasoline prices in Massachusetts are down four cents this week, according to AAA Northeast.

AAA Northeast's Feb. 10 survey of prices in Massachusetts finds self-serve, regular unleaded averaging $2.47 per gallon. Massachusetts's price is 4 cents above the national average of $2.43. A year ago at this time, the average price in Massachusetts was 13 cents lower at $2.34 per gallon.

"Crude oil prices are at their cheapest point in a year," said Mary Maguire, director, Public and Legislative Affairs. "That, plus steady gasoline supply levels and low demand have helped to push local average prices lower - six cents cheaper than three weeks ago."

The range in prices in the latest AAA survey for unleaded regular is 88 cents, from a low of $2.17 to a high of $3.05. AAA advises motorists to shop around for the best prices in their area.

Remember to slow down and move over for any emergency vehicles on the side of the road.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1939 postcard view of Coddington Street from its intersection with Washington Street in Quincy Square. A master plan developed by the city's Planning Board in the 1920s called for lining both sides of this street with large buildings all the way down to Sea Street with the then new police headquarters as the anchor on the far end. A number of buildings were built in accordance with that plan, including the court house on the left, the high school and the vocational school. On the right were built the Bethany Church, a medical building and the YMCA. Not built was a large city-owned sports coliseum that was to be located at Faxon Field (today the site of the Faxon Field Track facility). The old court house was torn down in the mid 1980s and the site is now home to an apartment building adjacent to Presidents Place. Note the angle parking that provided many more spaces than what is there today.

Explore Other Uses For Former Lowe's Site

Last month Ward Four Councillor Brian Palmucci with representatives of the MBTA hosted an informational meeting at South West Middle School on Granite Street in Quincy, regarding the potential MBTA taking over the now vacant Lowe's property on Burgin Parkway, and establish their Bus Depot at said location.

It was clear that most of the attendees and area residents objected to the idea and had numerous questions to the MBTA representatives. Many of them went unanswered due to the fact they, meaning MBTA, was still in the early planning stages.

One thing became clear, from Councillor Palmucci's statement that he and his constituents did not want diesel engine busses housed in that location for the air quality reason as being one. An MBTA representative, however, indicated that their zero emission busses are still several years away before coming on line in Quincy.

City Councillor At-Large and Ward 4 resident Anne Mahoney had several questions, and alluded that this project perhaps is a done deal. That remark caused Councillor Palmucci to be visibly annoyed, and he went on to state "it is not a done deal." I hope Councillor Palmucci can hold on to that statement.

Nevertheless, I would have liked to hear more what Councillor Mahoney had to say, not as our councillor, but as a resident of Ward 4, but she was cut short.

In any event, I can understand councillors are protective of their own area, and can call the shots as they see it at the moment.

Area residents had several suggestions where the depot would be better suited than on Burgin Parkway and inquired if the MBTA had explored other locations, not just this one? The response was that they (MBTA) are continuously exploring areas of suitable locations, but have learned that previously available land is now housing development and no longer available.

I am also questioning wouldn't this property be perfect for possible housing? According to the reports from the state and the City of Quincy administration there is an urgent demand for housing. So - Lowe's property, almost 13 acres would be meeting additional housing needs for middle and low income development. Lowe's location would also meet the criteria for transit oriented/smart growth development. It being cross the street from the MBTA Red Line Station and would have enough parking. Although transit oriented development requires less parking, as its concept is less cars more public transit and bikes.

In any event, it should be explored. Governor Charlie Baker and Mayor Thomas Koch both are on board for more urgently needed housing in Quincy.

Next to the Lowe's property has now attractive high rise residential development called "Deco", having one similar next to it would fulfill much needed housing and would look like a partner to the Deco building, and call it the "Art." This would further reduce cramming so many multi-unit apartments into older residential neighborhoods - the complaints that we hear continuously, especially in Res. B zoned areas.

This is the area where high rise and high density development would make sense. But to lose more than 12 acres of valuable real estate developable land for a bus depot makes no sense. And, worst of it all, the MBTA is tax exempt, and would pay no real estate taxes to Quincy, adding more burden to homeowners' tax burden. Furthermore, as Councillor Palmucci stated, the city would not have any say or control of the depot operations, as it is an authority and do not need to answer to anyone. I think the residents of the area wouldn't object to that as much as they do on the bus depot.

We have professional city planners, dedicated city councillors, so I hope they and the mayor will work out what is best for its residents and taxpayers, and the best use of the Lowe's property. In addition bring some tax relief for us older residents who wish to remain in their homes and try to tolerate the ever increasing real estate taxes.

Quincy Tennis Tournament Crowns Champs

The 49th Annual City of Quincy Tennis Tournament has come to an end and has awarded 11 championship bowls to some familiar winners from past years and some newcomers to the event.

The tournament is credited by the NELTA as the longest running municipal tennis tournament in New England. The Quincy event is organized and supervised by the Quincy Recreation Department and is sponsored by the Quincy Credit Union.

Of the 11 divisions of play, the largest and most popular event has always been the Men's Singles and this year it was the same result. In the end, it was Shane Lerkvikarn winning for the third consecutive year the Lionel "Shine" Buckley Bowl. Shane defeated Ankur Katiyar 6-4 and 6-3 in a match that had just about every point being highly contested.

The Women's Singles had a repeat matchup as last year's championship and ultimately ended with the same result. Lydia Chan advanced through the draw to win the cup once again, marking back to back wins and her third total championship. Yulia Houghton has reached the finals in her first two years of play. Yulia worked her way to the finals before falling to Lydia 6-0, 6-1. The Chan family is no stranger to the Women's Singles championship with mother, Phoebe, winning the event seven times since 2002.

The Boys' 16 and Under Singles event this year was destined to crown a new champion with Shanke Lerkvikarn not being eligible to play once he turned 17. In an intense matchup, Andrew Johnson won his first championship after defeating Tristen Pecevich 6-5, 6-7 (14-16), 6-2. Both participants showed great heart and even more sportsmanship. We are looking forward to watching these youngsters grow.

The Girls' 16 and Under Singles event saw the same champion as last year with Matilda Rollins winning a competitive matchup. Matilda already has two championships under her belt and she still has more years to add to her collection. Matilda won 6-0, 6-4 over Chloe Chin, playing in her first tournament. Chloe is a member of the North Quincy Tennis team and showed a lot of potential to become an even better player.

The Men's "B" Singles title saw a returning champion. In the end, it was Kunal Kamra winning the matchup against Scott Rutkowski in a hard-fought game of great tennis. The final score was 6-3, 6-1. Kunal first won this event in 2017, making him a two time champion. Scott fought his hardest to the end, but could not overcome Kunal in the championship.

Like prior years, the Women's Doubles has been dominated like no other event by Aileen Eleey. Aileen first won the event playing with her mother Isabelle Smith in 1993. Aileen has now added to her collection of winning the event eighteen times. She has won the event with nine different partners including her two daughters multiple times. This year she had tournament new comer Genevieve Olson as her partner in their run for the title. They defeated finalists Kelsey Chow and Tiffany Pham in two games by the same 6-0 score. Kelsey and Tiffany play tennis for Quincy High School, and playing competition like Aileen will help them become better players.

In the Women's 35 and Over Singles, Kathleen Brennan also became a two time champ with a win over Yulia Houghton 6-3, 6-4. It was an exciting matchup and Kathleen persevered and ended victorious. For Yulia, this was her second 2nd place finish. She had a great tournament and gave it her all in each matchup she played.

The Men's 60 and Over Singles is the newest event in the long history of the tournament. Added in 2013 to accommodate the fact that players were still great and active in that age group. The competitive event has no two-time champion. This year Dung Nguyen was crowned champion after a matchup with John Doherty, who was playing in his first tournament. John showed nothing but great heart, hustle and determination throughout the tournament but ultimately in the end he was defeated by Dung 6-2 in both sets. Dung was set to take off to a trip to Vietnam the next day and he got to bring his championship with him.

Job Chan on the men's side of the tennis playing family did not leave all the awards to the female side of the family. Job won his sixth "Richard H. Meade" Bowl in the Men's 50 and Over Singles championship. Meade the long time city planner won the event in 2004 and has been an advocate for the tennis community through his work with the Quincy Tennis Club. Chan defeated Earl Moore 6-1, 6-0. Earl was the Men's 60 and Over champion last year and was hoping to use that as experience for his championship matchup this year. Joe Ryan holds the bragging right to this event winning it eight times.

With a great turnout like previous years, the Men's Doubles was a challenging event with highly contested matches throughout the tournament. Jin Zeng and Jirawat Anektanasap won their first championship with a 6-4, 6-2 victory over tough opponents Ankur Katiyar and Jigar Patel. The award is the Henry "The Master" McAuliffe Bowl in tribute to McAuliffe, a longtime member of the tennis community who was known for his love of the game and willingness to share his skills with everyone.

The Men's 35 and Over Singles saw a semifinals rematch from last year in this year's championship. Job Chan and Ankur Katiyar played an extraordinary matchup but it was Ankur who prevailed and won his second consecutive championship over Job, 6-4, 6-1. Both men are great players in the tournament each year and the battle between those two was an exciting matchup for tennis fans to watch.

Quincy Recreation Director Michelle Hanly, in presenting the trophy awards, made note of the fact that the Quincy Credit Union was supporting the event for the 23rd consecutive year.

"They have become a true partner in every way, are enjoyable to work with, and understand the value to the tennis playing individuals and families who take part in this special event," Hanly said. "We do not take their continued support of the event for granted and are thankful for their commitment to this great Quincy tradition."

The tournament was missing John Franceschini this year. Franceschini was recovering from surgery and could not make it.

For more than three decades, Franceschini has been the tournament director, organizing, seeding and overseeing hundreds of matches each year. His knowledge of the tennis community is second to none and he is an instrumental in our success year after year.

Hanly thanked her Recreation staff members Malory DeVoe and Greg Clarke for their help with the tournament. DeVoe is the head coach for the successful girls tennis team at North Quincy High School. She is also the granddaughter of the founder of the tournament Ken Rickson who as the director of Physical Education for the Quincy Public Schools approached the Recreation Department 49 years ago to seek their assistance in supervising this activity.

Hanly congratulated all the participants for their sportsmanship during the entire tournament. Everyone participated with great enthusiasm and enjoyed the comradery of the event. Plans are underway for the tournaments 50th year.

Braided Sweet Bread

By MARIE

I made today's recipe with my friends at baking club. It is called Braided Sweet Bread. You will find this recipe easy to make, pretty to look at and quite delicious!

Recipe:

Preheat oven to 350 degrees, prepare a cookie sheet with parchment paper

- 2 ¼ cups of warm water
- 2 tablespoons of yeast
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 4 tablespoons melted butter
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 to 5 cups of flour

In a large mixing bowl, dissolve the yeast in the warm water with a pinch of sugar.

Let sit 5 to 10 until foamy then add remaining sugar, egg, butter, salt and 3 cups of the flour.

Mix until all ingredients are well combined.

Add the remaining flour ¼ cup at a time until the dough forms a soft ball that is just slightly sticky to the touch.

Place in greased bowl and cover with plastic wrap and let rise in a warm place for 1 hour.

When dough has risen, gently punch down and divide in half. Divide each into 3 equal pieces and then roll each piece into a rope about 16 inches long.

Braid the three strands together, and tuck the ends under and place the braid on a greased cookie sheet or a cookie sheet lined with parchment paper.

Repeat these steps with the other half of the dough and let rise 30 to 40 minutes.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees, coat braids with egg wash (directions for egg wash below) and bake 30 minutes or until golden brown.

When bread is baked, serve with butter, jam or any favorite.

Egg Wash

Whisk together one egg and a little water until smooth.

With a pastry brush, brush cover tops of bread.

Valentine's Day Cookie Sandwiches

- 1 cup pitted Medjool dates (pitted)
- 1/2 cup unsalted sunflower seeds
- 1/2 cup walnuts
- 3 Tbsp raw cacao powder (or 4 Tbsp cocoa powder)
- 1/2 tsp pure vanilla extract
- Filling: 1/2 cup raspberries
- 2 Tbsp coconut flour
- 1 Tbsp coconut oil
- 1 Tbsp raw honey
- 1 tsp vanilla

Blend the sunflower seeds and walnuts in a food processor until finely ground but not a nut butter consistency.

Add the cacao powder and vanilla extract and blend again.

Add the dates and process until a non crumbly dough like mixture is formed, transfer onto a large piece of wax paper.

Cover the top of the dough with wax paper, and flatten with a rolling pin.

Place the flattened dough in the freezer (with both sheets of wax paper).

For the filling, combine raspberries, coconut flour, coconut oil, honey, and vanilla in a food processor and blend until smooth.

Transfer the filling mixture onto a large piece of wax paper.

Cover the top with another piece of wax paper and use a rolling pin to flatten. Transfer the filling (with wax paper) to the freezer, remove the outer dough from the freezer and remove the top layer of wax paper.

Using a 1 inch heart shaped cookie cutter, cut the dough into hearts.

Remove the filling from the freezer and remove the top layer of wax paper.

Using the cookie cutter, cut the filling into hearts.

Place one heart of filling over one cookie heart, and top with another cookie heart to form a sandwich.

Store in the freezer until served.

Note: I used frozen raspberries in the filling to expedite the setting process.

Pedestrians In Quincy – Cross At Your Own Risk!

It's no secret that my two-year-old daughter and I consider the Thomas Crane Library a second home. To get there, we have to cross Coddington Street.

Coddington Street is a "concurrent crossing." This means, that while pedestrians have a walk sign, drivers are given a green light to go as well. What could go wrong?

Unfortunately, we saw what could go wrong last summer when a pedestrian was struck and killed at a "concurrent crossing" in Boston. It's only a matter of time before a pedestrian in Quincy needlessly suffers the same fate.

Boston wisely corrected the concurrent signaling at that intersection. Quincy, however, refuses to do so despite still having the luxury of being proactive.

After yet another incident of almost being mowed down while trying to cross Coddington, I emailed the at-large councillors as well as the Director of Traffic, Parking, Alarm and Lighting (TPAL), Chris Cassani, with my concerns for this pedestrian heavy intersection.

Eventually, Mr Cassani responded. "At intersections like this one...pedestrian delay in waiting to get the exclusive walk time would be quite high. Excessive delay for pedestrians is one factor that leads pedestrians to cross without any sort of protection at all. At the same time, drivers see non-utilized time at a crossing and they too begin to make decisions that are not in anyone's best interests."

Do we know what else is not in anyone's best interest? Being hit by a car.

Giving both the go ahead out of an assumption that both drivers and pedestrians are too impatient to wait their turn is nonsensical and dangerous.

What will it take to convince the city that this concurrent crossing is a safety issue worthy of immediate attention? Hopefully it won't take someone losing their life.

Sweets For The Sweet- The Benefits Of Chocolate

A Message From Ruth Jones, City Of Quincy Health Commissioner

By RUTH JONES
MSPH, BSN, RN,
BC, CP-FS

The next time you indulge in a piece of chocolate, you may not have to feel overly guilty about it. Despite its adverse reputation for triggering weight gain, there are a number of health benefits associated with this gratifying treat.

Chocolate is created from tropical Theobroma cacao tree seeds and dates back to the Olmec civilization in Mesoamerica. Following the European discovery of the Americas, chocolate became very popular in the world, and the demand for it soared. Chocolate has since become an incredibly well-liked food product that millions treat themselves to every day. The average American consumes approximately 10 pounds of chocolate each year.

But what effect does eating chocolate have on our health?

Throughout the years, chocolate has received a lot of negative press because of its fat content; its consumption has been linked with acne, obesity, high blood pressure, coronary artery disease, and diabetes. However, according to a review of chocolate's health effects in the Netherlands Journal of Medicine, it's not as bad as we estimated. The article indicates that the recent discovery of biologically active phenolic compounds in cocoa has altered this perception and stimulated research on its effects in aging, oxidative stress, blood pressure regulation, and atherosclerosis.

Presently, chocolate is praised for its remarkable antioxidant potential. The greater the cocoa content, the more health benefits and the less sugar content there seems to be, which is valuable for overall health. Chocolate is made from plants, which means it contains many of the health benefits of dark vegetables. These benefits are from flavonoids, which act as antioxidants. Antioxidants protect the body from aging caused by free radicals, which can cause damage that leads to heart disease.

Dark chocolate contains a large number of antioxidants (nearly 8 times the number found in strawberries). Flavonoids also help relax blood pressure through the production of nitric oxide, and balance certain hormones in the body.

The potential benefits of eating chocolate may include: Lowering cholesterol levels, preventing cognitive decline and reducing the risk of cardiovascular problems.

A study, published in The Journal of Nutrition, stated that chocolate consumption might help reduce low-density lipoprotein (LDL) cholesterol levels, also known as "bad fats." The group of researchers set out to examine whether chocolate bars containing plant sterols and cocoa flavanols have any effect on cholesterol levels.

The study authors wrote that the results denoted that regular consumption of chocolate bars containing plant sterols and cocoa flavanols, as part of a low-fat diet, may support cardiovascular wellbeing by lowering cholesterol and improving blood pressure.

Scientists at Harvard Medical School suggest that drinking two cups of hot chocolate a day could assist in keeping the brain healthy and reducing memory decline in older people. The researchers discovered that hot chocolate helped improve blood flow to parts of the brain where it was needed. The study results indicated that as different areas of the brain require more energy to complete their tasks, they also need increase blood flow. This relationship, termed neurovascular coupling, may have a significant role in diseases such as Alzheimer's.

In a further study, published in 2014, researchers found that a cocoa extract, called lavado, could possibly reduce or prevent damage to nerve pathways found in patients with Alzheimer's disease. This may indicate that symptoms of the condition, such as cognitive decline, could be slowed.

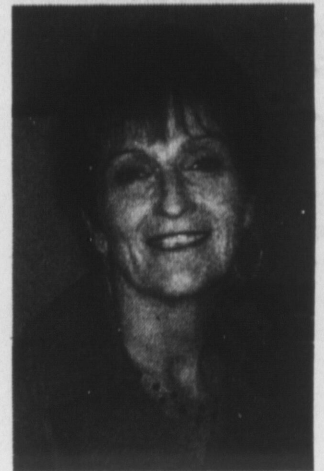

Research, published in The British Medical Journal, proposes that consuming chocolate could help lower the chance of developing heart disease by one-third. The report was presented at the European Society of Cardiology Congress in France. The authors concluded that based on observational verification, levels of chocolate consumption appear to be associated with a significant reduction in the risk of cardio-metabolic disorders. However it is noted that further experimental studies are required to confirm a potentially beneficial influence of chocolate consumption.

Canadian scientists carried out a study involving 44,489 individuals and found that people eating chocolate were 22 percent less likely to suffer a stroke than those who didn't. Also, those who had a stroke but regularly consumed chocolate were 46 percent less likely to die as a result.

In a further study, published in the journal Heart in 2015, researchers tracked the impact of diet on the long-term health of 25,000 men and women. The findings suggested that eating up to 100 grams or 3.5 ounces of chocolate each day may be linked to a lower risk of heart disease and stroke.

Over recent years, there has been a great deal of interest in chocolate and its potential health effects; however the risks of chocolate consumption need to be addressed. Chocolate has a high calorie count, containing large amounts of sugar. Therefore, if an individual is trying to slim down or maintain their weight, it may be a good idea to set a limit on chocolate intake.

Chocolate does contain fats; however some of the fats in chocolate do not impact your cholesterol. The fats in dark chocolate are 1/3 oleic acid, a healthy monounsaturated fat that is also found in olive oil, 1/3 stearic acid, a saturated fat but one which research shows has a neutral effect on cholesterol, and 1/3 palmitic acid, a saturated fat, one which raises cholesterol and heart disease risk. That means only 1/3 of the fat in dark chocolate is bad for you.

All in all, there are both health benefits and negative aspects to chocolate. However, as in everything in life, moderation is the key. Who knows, in the future, maybe a doctor's visit could possibly result in a prescription for chocolate.

Ruth Jones is the health commissioner for the City of Quincy.

Dreading A Dental Visit? 5 Tips For Getting The Most Out Of It

Many people would just as soon avoid scheduling a dental appointment, unless an unbearable toothache lands them reluctantly in the dentist's chair.

Fear of pain is one reason for procrastination, but it's not the only factor. People worry a routine checkup could reveal the need for expensive, major work. Wary patients also sometimes harbor doubts about whether a costly procedure is even necessary.

But patients can put themselves at ease and get the most out of their dental visit by fully vetting their dentist and learning how to weigh options, says Dr. Rick Mars, author of "The Big Smile: The Principles of Modern Dentistry - for Dentists and Patients."

"Many dentists don't do a good job of educating their patients and communicating with them," Dr. Mars says, "and most patients don't do a good enough job educating themselves. We have a saying in dentistry that if you put 10 dentists in a room with a single patient, they will come up with 10 different treatment plans."

"But the great thing about dentistry is the multitude of creative solutions available to patients. You need to ask the right questions to make sure you understand the treatment options."

Dr. Mars offers these tips for finding the right dental treatment at a fair price:

Educate yourself and listen when your dentist educates. "The worst thing that can happen is that you don't get the treatment you need and something disastrous happens," Dr. Mars says. "The second worst thing that can happen is that you do get treatment, but you didn't actually need it. Taking an active role means you not only do your own research and get a second opinion, but you also listen carefully to your doctor when your doctor educates you."

Read online reviews with a critical eye. "The internet can be very helpful when you're vetting a new dentist, but there's also a lot of misinformation out there with patients' reviews," Dr. Mars says. "In today's world, patients wield power like they never previously had. In general, people who bother to write reviews are disgruntled and want re-course and even revenge. On the other hand, numerous positive reviews, ideally from people you know who were treated by that dentist, can add up to a trustworthy referral."

Interview your dentist and their team. "You can ask them how many times they've done a certain procedure and even ask to see photos of their cases," Dr. Mars says. "It may require a specialist rather than a general dentist. And find out why they charge what they charge."

Get an honest second opinion. "Even though you trust your dentist, you might hear a treatment plan that just doesn't sit well with you," Dr. Mars says. "Get a copy of your radiographs from your current dentist to take to your second-opinion dentist. Never show the second dentist your treatment plan until they give their final suggestions."

Ask to see the results of your dental investment. "Rather than limit your evaluation of your dentist to time, cost, or customer service, think about your dental work like you consider mechanical work to your car," Dr. Mars says.

"After treatment, dentists can and should show you radiographs of your teeth and point out the details proving your problem is fixed."

"If you've done your homework," Dr. Mars says, "your dentist, whether a general practitioner or a specialist, should leave no room for doubt that you're in the right place."

Dr. Rick Mars is a general dentist and the author of "The Big Smile: The Principles of Modern Dentistry - for Dentists and Patients."

Social Security Matters

What Happens To My Social Security If I Die At Age 62?

By RUSSELL GLOOR

AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: I have worked my entire life and contributed to Social Security. I have been single my entire life with no children. What happens to all that money I have contributed to Social Security if I die at age 62? Signed: Curious Worker

Dear Curious: From its inception in 1935, Social Security has always been a "pay as you go" program where current workers contribute money from which current beneficiaries are paid. That's the way it has worked since the first Social Security payroll withholding occurred in 1937 and the first Social Security benefit was paid in 1940. And it works the same way today.

Social Security FICA payroll taxes collected from current workers are used to pay all those who are currently receiving benefits. Any excess collected which is not paid out in benefits is deposited into a special Trust Fund and held in reserve for the future. My hope is that understanding this will dispel a far too widely held myth that the money you pay into the Social Security program from your paycheck is deposited into a personal account for you - it is not. Rather that money is used to pay benefits to all those who are already collecting Social Security. And the extra money in the Trust Fund is invested in special interest-bearing bonds which contribute further to the Trust Fund's reserves (more about the Trust Fund in a minute).

If you were to pass away at, or before, age 62, all the money you paid into Social Security via FICA payroll taxes will have already been spent to pay benefits to those already collecting Social Security. With no surviving dependents, there are no benefits to be paid from your lifetime work record. True you will have paid a great deal over your working career, but the system is designed so that when you retire your benefits will be paid for by those who are still working and paying into the system. Of course, it's a game of averages and Social Security says the "average" longevity for a male today is about 84. So, unless you're already in poor health, chances are pretty good you will live beyond age 62. Chances are also pretty good that if you do, you'll get back much more in benefits than you have contributed. In fact, if you start collecting benefits at your full retirement age you will get back benefits at least equal to what you contributed within about 5 years (we've studied this carefully). Which brings us back to the Trust Fund.

The Social Security Trust Fund held about $2.9 trillion in reserves at the end of 2018. But over the years the ratio of workers to beneficiaries has declined from 16.5 to 1 in 1950 to less than 3 to 1 today, so there are far fewer workers paying for beneficiaries who are living much longer. Starting in 2019, Social Security will pay out more in benefits than it received from FICA payroll taxes, which means the excess paid out in benefits will come from the reserves in the Trust Fund. That will continue, according to the most recent Social Security Trustees' Report, until the Trust Fund is depleted in about 2035, at which time Social Security will only be able to pay out about 80% of benefits due - unless Congress acts soon to resolve the issue. And the solutions are well known; what's lacking in Congress is a serious bipartisan effort to fix the problem.

Kennedy Joins Machinists, Carmen In Quincy To Protest MBTA Privatization

Congressman Joe Kennedy III joined the International Association of Machinists (IAM) Local 264 and the Boston Carmen's Union for an event Feb. 2 to protest the proposed idea of hiring an outside vendor, rather than T employees, to maintain and operate 60 new buses.

Standing with Boston Carmen's Union President Jim Evers, Michael Vartabedian of Local 264, and Executive Director of the Greater Boston Labor Council Darlene Lombos, Kennedy addressed over 100 union members outside the MBTA maintenance garage on Hancock Street in Quincy.

"The consequence of privatizing any part of the MBTA will be higher costs and lower quality service for already frustrated commuters," Kennedy, who is running a primary race against Senator Ed Markey, said.

Kennedy, a longtime supporter of union labor in Massachusetts, has made safe, affordable, and reliable transportation a key issue in his campaign for Senate. He noted that moves to privatize public transportation across the country set a dangerous precedent.

"I don't have to tell anyone here: but we are staring down forces of privatization across the country, powerful interests that take union labor for granted, that want to sacrifice a thriving public sector for private profit and private gain. We are here to say that privatization is not the answer for the MBTA."

In January, the MBTA proposed the idea of hiring an outside vendor, rather than T employees, to maintain and operate 60 new buses. On Jan. 28th, half a dozen state senators and representatives, alongside members of Local 264 and the Boston Carmen's Union, also voiced their opposition to privatization at MBTA's Fiscal and Management Control Board meeting.

On Feb. 2nd, Congressman Kennedy reiterated many of their concerns.

"Massachusetts has always been on the frontlines of that fight - and we need to be now. Because here we stand by our workers the way they stand by us every day. Here we value the time and sweat and talent that goes into literally making this city run. Here we won't let you privatize the public good."

With his strong record on issues of workers rights and economic justice, Kennedy has secured the majority of labor endorsements in the U.S. Senate race so far, including Massachusetts Laborers, the Machinists Statewide Council, Machinists Local 264, Teamsters Local 25, IBEW 103, 104, 1505 & 223, UWA 369, Carmen Union 589, Sheet Metal Workers Local 17, IUOE Local 4 & UFCW local 791, the Plymouth/Bristol County Regional Labor Council and the Norfolk County Regional Labor Council.

4-1 Vote OKs Washington Street Residential Building

By SCOTT JACKSON

The Planning Board approved a request to build a 20-unit residential building on Washington Street in Quincy Point, a proposal that drew opposition from area residents and three city councillors.

The board on Feb. 5 approved the proposal by Boston-based Euro Investment Group, led by the Wojcik brothers, to build the 20-unit building at 386-388 Washington St. The board voted 4-1 in favor of the plan, with Maureen Glynn opposed.

The site at 386-388 Washington St. is home to a single-story commercial building and a multi-family home. The project will also include a surface parking lot built in the rear of the adjacent two-family home at 17 Edison St. — that building will be renovated and kept as a two-family home.

The Wojciks' proposal includes a 20-space parking garage located at the lower level of the new residential building. The 20 residential units would be split between four floors on top of the garage; 19 of the units would have two bedrooms and the remaining unit would have a single bedroom. The surface lot will include an additional 24 spaces, for a total of 44.

The two parcels include 23,573 square feet of land. The Washington Street parcel is zoned business B and the Edison Street one is zoned residence B.

The proposal first went before the Planning Board on Dec. 11. Edward Fleming, the attorney for the developers, said the project had been altered to address concerns raised at that initial hearing.

"We're confident that this can be a proposal that can be very well done and a nice addition to the community," Fleming said.

As part of those changes, the entrance to the building was relocated from the Edison Street side to the rear of the building, moving it closer to the surface lot. By doing so, the developers were able to increase the number of spaces in the lower-level garage from 19 to 20.

In addition, the developers now plan to install Grasscrete pavers in the portion of the surface lot farthest from the building. The pavers allow grass to grow through them and will be installed because there were concerns raised that not all of the parking spaces provided on site would be utilized.

Fleming said his client also considered relocating the driveway from Edison Street to Washington Street to allay another concern raised by residents, but the city's traffic department was opposed to doing so because of the driveway's proximity to the traffic signal at Edison Street.

Eight area residents spoke in opposition to the proposal during the board's hearing. The board also received a petition signed by 95 residents who were against the project.

Victor Sanchez, an Edison Street resident, said he was concerned with traffic on his street and the size of the proposal.

"Traffic during rush hour is very heavy down Edison Street. People drive down during rush hour and they blow through a stop sign at Graham Street and Edison Street constantly," he said. "I honestly think this project is too big; 20 units...44 parking spaces is too much."

Karen Carpenter, an Edison Park resident, said the new building would negatively impact quality of life in the area.

"Our neighborhood is a quiet, residential, family-oriented community where kids play on the street, people walk their dogs and neighbors chat together on the sidewalk. Our neighborhood is very small, which means the impact of development is immediate," she said.

"This proposal, if approved, will negatively impact peace, quiet, safety and privacy of not only direct abutters but our entire enclave."

Jason Nasse, who lives on Edison Street, said he understands there is a need for housing in Quincy, but questioned the lack of commercial development.

"There is a lot of housing. There is not a lot of business opportunity," Nasse said. "I think what we really need to address is how we bring good jobs, high-paying jobs, to this area and stop focusing only on residential."

One resident, Dilyana Yordanova of Washington Street, spoke in favor of the new building.

"I'm for this project," she said. "I like it and I think our area needs more residential buildings."

Councillor Anne Mahoney said the project was not right for the neighborhood.

"I realize that we want to make sure that we're giving everybody an opportunity to make a big buck here in Quincy, but we're also asking taxpayers to pay a big buck here in Quincy, so we actually have to represent them too," she said.

"I'm here tonight to ask you to push back on this one. It's not ready and it's not right for this neighborhood."

Ward 1 Councillor David McCarthy, in whose district the site is located, said he would like the size of the new building reduced.

"I'd like to see it smaller," he said. "There are other buildings along Washington Street that are larger than this one, but I'd like it reduced a little bit if possible. I don't know if the developers can, but I think it would work out. I think that's what the neighborhood is looking for."

In addition, McCarthy said he was working with the city's traffic department to address residents' concerns about traffic on Edison Street and in the surrounding neighborhood.

Ward 2 Councillor Brad Croall said the proposal was too much for the neighborhood.

"I've seen the proposal. It looks like they're certainly going to invest in the aesthetic, but I think what I'm hearing consistently is it may be a little too much for the neighborhood to handle," Croall said.

The Planning Department recommended approval of the project following the public hearing, subject to 19 conditions. Before construction can begin, the applicant must obtain any necessary variances or permits from the Zoning Board of Appeals. The developer will also be required to pay the city $10,000 to upgrade the pedestrian crossing buttons at the intersection of Washington Street and Edison Street. In addition, the developer will not be able to open up Washington Street during construction without permission from the Department of Public Works because the road was repaved in 2018.

Before voting on the matter, Gregory Galvin, the board's vice chairman, said there is no market for commercial development currently.

"I recognize that the neighbors have commented that they would like to see some commercial development. Commercial development just isn't selling," Galvin said. "It's just a sign of the times with all the online shopping and everything that is being done online."

He also said relocating the driveway from Edison Street to Washington Street wouldn't work because of how busy Washington Street is.

"It just makes more sense to have the driveway off of Edison," Galvin said.

Developer Withdraws Beachcomber Plans For Now

By SCOTT JACKSON

The developers seeking to build a mixed-use building with restaurant and professional office space at the site of the Beachcomber on Quincy Shore Drive have withdrawn their proposal from city review but could refile later this year.

The Planning Board on Feb. 5 allowed the applicants to withdraw their proposal without prejudice, meaning it can be resubmitted at any time.

Three investors — Jacky An Xie of Saugus, Lin Y. Xu of Amesbury and Zhong Wen Huang of West Squantum Street — purchased the Beachcomber site at 797 Quincy Shore Dr. for $1.45 million in May 2018 and later proposed opening a new restaurant in its place.

The latest iteration of their plan — a three-story building with two levels of dining space and professional office space on the top floor — first went before the Planning Board in August. The hearing was continued at that time as the project was set to undergo state environmental review.

Edward Fleming, the attorney representing the site's owners, on Feb. 5 told the Planning Board the project has been withdrawn from the state environmental review process. Fleming said his clients do intend to go through with the state review and resubmit the proposal to the city once that process is complete.

"Rather than just continuing with this matter and asking all the neighbors to come here on a regular basis, we'd rather just withdraw the matter and refile," he said. "The goal is to go through the state permitting hopefully within the next few months and then refile this matter at that time."

The Planning Board meeting was held two nights after the City Council unanimously approved a resolution introduced by Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan Jr. asking Mayor Thomas Koch to consider purchasing the Beachcomber site and setting aside the land for open space and flood protection. Phelan said any construction on site "is just going to make the flooding problem that is already bad down there worse."

The mayor, in a statement after the council meeting, said the idea of purchasing the land "has great merit" and he planned to meet with the owners, neighbors and other stakeholders to discuss the future of the site.

The Beachcomber, a popular nightclub, operated on Quincy Shore Drive from 1959 until it closed for good in 2015. The site at 797 Quincy Shore Drive has an assessed value of $1.22 million, according to the city's online property records. It is located in a residential A zoning district and also inside a federally designated flood zone.

How The Municipal Aggregation Would Work

Thank you for your complete coverage of the Feb. 3 meeting of the City Council and the Council's approval of municipal aggregation, which would give residents an opportunity to save money on electricity while also increasing their use of renewable energy. There is one minor piece in the article of Feb. 6 that calls for a correction. I was quoted as saying an average customer would pay an extra $20 annually to purchase 100% of their power from renewable sources. Perhaps I misspoke. To clarify, here is how the aggregation will work:

- The city's consultant, Good Energy, will request bids from large electricity suppliers. Based upon several years of experience with several communities, it is expected that the winning bid will result in savings compared to what National Grid charges for Basic Service, even with ten percent more renewable energy than required by state law. This is what we call the default offer. Savings are not guaranteed, but the track record for aggregation is excellent.

- Consumers will be given ample opportunity to choose a rate that is a little bit cheaper because while it would comply with the state requirement, but would not have the extra 10 percent renewable energy. We estimate that difference to be about $20 per year.

- Consumers will also be given the opportunity to choose rates that include 50 percent and 100 percent more renewable energy than required by law. Those options will cost more than the default offer. But the premium between the extra cost for these very green choices and the aggregation's lowest rate is tax-deductible for those who itemize charitable contributions on their federal tax returns.

- Consumers will also be given the choice to "opt-out" of the aggregation altogether if they would prefer to stay on National Grid's Basic Service or to choose another electricity supplier.

My organization, Green Energy Consumers Alliance, is excited to work with Quincy and its consultant, Good Energy, on this program that makes economic and environmental sense.

Elementary - Not Middle - Schools For All 5th Graders

Quincy Public Schools (QPS) defines the elementary grades in our City as kindergarten through fifth grade, but did you know that not all fifth graders in Quincy attend elementary school?

Of the City's 11 elementary schools, 9 of them house fifth-grade students, but the other 2 do not.

For almost 20 years now, fifth grade students from Clifford Marshall Elementary have attended school at Point Webster Middle School, and for 10 years now fifth graders from Lincoln Hancock Elementary have been attending Sterling Middle School (now South-West).

Although both Clifford Marshall and Lincoln Hancock both originally opened as kindergarten through fifth grade schools, for space reasons QPS moved the fifth-grade students to the middle schools in those neighborhoods. The moves were made as a solution to an overcrowding/space problem, and should have been considered a short-term solution until a better long-term solution could be found for those students. We have long needed a new elementary school in the southern/southwestern portion of the City to accommodate those displaced 10-year-old students. With open space in the City at a premium, and with no strong political desire to find a long-term solution to the space issues at Marshall and Lincoln Hancock, the fifth-grade students in those neighborhoods have remained elementary school students in a middle-school environment for far too long.

The reasons why having fifth graders in middle school is problematic are numerous and far-reaching. Ultimately, it creates an inequity in our City and in our school system. These two sets of fifth graders at Point and South-West are being given a different set of expectations, and are required to function at a higher developmental level (executive functioning, social and emotional maturity, transitioning, making good decisions about serious issues they're faced with, etc.) than their peers across the City.

The following are just some examples of the many ways this impacts these fifth graders and their families each and every day:

1. Both Clifford Marshall and Lincoln Hancock are Title 1 schools, meaning they service a vulnerable population of students and families. Title 1 school communities include a higher percentage of students from low-income households, which often results in challenges including limited access to technology and good nutrition, and fewer resources and social supports. Many of the students in these areas of the City already bear a disproportional burden of inequity outside of the school building.

2. Fifth grade students in these areas actually go to school 45 more hours per school year than their elementary peers — this is because middle school has only two half-day Tuesdays per month, versus every Tuesday being a half-day in elementary school. (18 more half days x 2.5 hours = 45 hours)

3. All-city band fifth graders in elementary school attend practice every week because every week is a half day Tuesday.

Our Quincy High Episode Feb. 13-19

The Quincy High Film and Television Production class has produced the first episode of Our Quincy High for his season. The show was hosted by Lawrence Taglieri and featured two guests, Thomas Doucette (an arts teacher and director for Quincy High's upcoming musical), and John Green (the Film and Television Production teacher).

The episode can be seen at 6p.m. on channel 22 Feb. 13-19 or on the Quincy High Film and Television Broadcasting YouTube channel.

day for them; however, fifth graders from Point and South-West can only attend half of the practices because there are only 2 half-day Tuesdays per month — this means less time receiving instruction from the band instructor, and less time practicing alongside other band members, leaving those students at a disadvantage come concert-time.

4. Fifth grade students in middle school encounter and have to make decisions about more mature issues than those in elementary school, including but not limited to vaping, edible marijuana, violence, explicit language, bullying, and more complex social relationships/dating/intimacy.

5. These fifth-grade students have lost their community — they are not part of their elementary community anymore, but because of QPS' protocol of keeping fifth graders separate from older middle school grades, they aren't part of the middle school community either.

6. Despite QPS trying to keep the fifth graders at Point and South-West separate, they are still allowed and expected to interact with older students at many points throughout their day — when waiting on campus for doors to open before school or for parents to pick them up after school, when they participate in before and after school activities and clubs with them, in bathrooms, on busses, etc. These also tend to be less-structured and less-supervised environments, which requires these fifth graders to navigate a more complex social landscape largely on their own.

7. Fifth graders in middle school are treated like middle schoolers, with a middle school schedule that includes more teachers, bells to signal the beginning/end of class, and independent switching between classes. Students are also expected to be well-organized and on time for each class.

8. Fifth-graders at Point and South-West have no playground structures, swings, or basketball courts to play on with their friends at recess, and they have limited access to grassy space.

9. Breakfast and lunch are more expensive in middle school than in elementary school. Fifth graders at Point and South-West pay more for breakfast and more for lunch every day than fifth graders in elementary school do. Additionally, unhealthy snack options are available for purchase in middle schools, making supporting good nutrition for this vulnerable population more challenging.

10. Many of these students and their families experience anxiety over entering middle school a year earlier than most of their peers across the City. These students have one fewer year in a supported, nurturing elementary school environment where they could have another year to build confidence and gain maturity before entering the middle school environment, where independence, responsibility, and maturity are expected. Additionally, students who are accepted into the advanced placement program (APC) have to make two middle school transitions in two years (one to Point/South-West in fifth grade, then another to Central in sixth grade).

Countless projects across our City have come online, received funding, and have been completed in the past two decades, with many more in the works and on the horizon. Allowing this inequity to continue in one of the most critical and important aspects of our city, our school system, constitutes a purposeful and blatant disservice to the fifth-grade students at Point and South-West and their families.

I urge everyone reading this to join me in calling and/or emailing our city leaders and asking them to commit to finding a more equitable permanent solution for these ten-year old students.

Respectfully,
Courtney Perdios

Adams Street Building Proposal Draws Opposition

By SCOTT JACKSON

Neighbors and a pair of city councillors expressed unease over a developer's plan to construct a six-story, 70-unit building on Adams Street in Quincy Center, citing the height of the proposed structure and its potential impact on traffic.

The Planning Board on Feb. 5 held a public hearing on the proposal by Capital Construction Management, led by Derrick Fitzgerald, to construct the new building at 24-26 Adams St. The board did not vote on the matter that night and continued the hearing on the proposal to March 11.

The two parcels of land include a single-story office building and the former Hamel, Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home. Combined, the two parcels contain 32,000 square feet of land in a business C zoning district. The site, which is adjacent to the Adams Academy, is also in a designated historic district.

Fitzgerald's proposal first went before the Planning Board in October, when the developer pitched an 80-unit, six-story building. The plan featured a basement and surface level garage, with a total of 84 parking spaces, with five stories of residences above.

Edward Fleming, Fitzgerald's attorney, on Feb. 5 said his client agreed to reduce the number of units from 80 to 70 and the number of parking spaces from 84 to 81, including three visitors' spaces in front of the building. The developer also agreed to shorten the driveway, which will be located on the right-hand side of the building, so it no longer runs the length of the structure.

Fleming said those changes were made to address feedback received at the October hearing and at a community meeting held earlier last year.

"My client took those comments into consideration, he went back to the drawing board, he met with his development professionals...and changes were made to the plan to address those comments," Fleming said.

The height of the building, 70 feet, was a point of concern during the meeting. Fleming suggested the height of the floors inside building could be reduced to lower the overall height of the structure by six feet or more. Fleming also noted 1 Adams St., which is located directly across the street from the project site, is eight stories tall while 77 Adams St. stands twelve stories high.

Board member P.J. Foley said he was concerned about the height of the building given its proximity to the Adams Academy.

"I am concerned about the height," he said. "That was my initial concern... overshadowing the Adams Academy."

Because the Adams Academy is located to the south of the project site, Fleming said the proposed building would not cast shadows on the Adams Academy. Fleming said the building would cast a shadow on 36 Adams St., which is located on the other side of the project site, but it would be minimal during most of the year.

"During the winter months there is a shadow impact on that property; however, the majority of months of the year there is very little shadow impact next door to us," Fleming said.

Dr. Elise McCarthy, a dermatologist whose office is located at 36 Adams St., said she was concerned her office would be overshadowed by the new building.

"If we have a behemoth six-story jammed ten feet against our property, that's just not fair," she said. "It's massively too big for the property."

During the public hearing, three residents of 1 Adams St. spoke against Fitzgerald's proposal.

Lyman Yee said construction in Quincy has changed the community.

"There is just so much building that it's changing the whole dynamic of the city. It's not family oriented anymore," he said. "There is just too much construction."

Bill Meyer said he was concerned about vehicles exiting from the proposed building onto Adams Street at the same time vehicles from his building would be.

"It's going to be quite a show Monday through Friday in the morning and at night," he said.

Councillor Anne Mahoney said the proposed building was too big and would loom over the neighboring buildings on both sides.

"This is a perfect example of something that's just too big," she said. "You are putting something on top of one of our gems in the city of Quincy, and that's the Adams Academy. Although it might not be shadowing it, it's going to oversize it... and it's going to take away from the beauty that that is.

"On top of that, you're on top of another property line."

Ward 1 Councillor David McCarthy said the developer should consider reducing the height of the proposed building by two stories and cutting the units to 60.

"I'd really love to see the board hold off on this and see if we can get another look at something smaller," he said.

Gregory Galvin, the board's vice chairman, suggested the applicant take into consideration feedback received during the public hearing.

"There have been a number of concerns raised," Galvin said. "I think we should continue this matter for one more meeting, maybe see if you can drop the building down...to see what we can get."

Fleming said his client would take those concerns into consideration.

"We'll certainly take into consideration the concerns raised," he told the board.

On Sunday, Feb. 02, at approximately 4:05 p.m., Officers Ruggiero and Rolfson were dispatched to the area of Federal Avenue by the Eastern Bank for a male who was seen walking in and out of driveways. A physical description was provided of the male, wearing all black clothing and carrying a gold back pack.

Upon arrival, Officer Rolfson located the male at the corner of Federal Avenue and Goddard Street. He requested identification from the male, who said he did not have any and gave the name of Patrick Fitzpatrick. He said he was from Rhode Island and was staying with a friend in Quincy, although he was unable to provide a name or address.

A police computer search of the name and date of birth showed no such person. The male was advised of this and he then provided his true name and date of birth.

At this time Communications discovered an active warrant out of Edgartown District Court so the male was placed into handcuffs and put in a cruiser. A search of the male's gold backpack uncovered bolt cutters, two flashlights and various Milwaukee tools all new and still tagged from Home Depot. There were also two laptop computers (Lenovo, Apple MacBook Air), a set of Jeep car keys and two unfilled prescriptions for Adderall (written to a victim).

When questioned, the male stated all of the tools and laptops were his. He also stated the prescriptions belonged to his friend and the keys belonged to his girlfriend. On the key ring there was a Planet Fitness member card, so Officer Ruggiero contacted the Quincy Planet site and learned the card came back to a female from Warwick, R.I., who belonged to a Planet Fitness site in Rhode Island.

Upon powering up the Apple laptop, the officer saw the name of another female. There was also a piece of paper covering the web camera at the top of the screen. Through the officer's training and experience, they knew this is a common practice to cover the camera in order to hide their physical identity when the true owner uses the "Find my Mac Book" feature. The male assured the officers that the Lenovo computer was his.

When asked for the security lock pass code, the male gave the wrong one multiple times and was not able to make access. After waiving his Miranda Rights, the male admitted he stole all of the tools from the Home Depot in Providence, R.I.

Based on this information, the male, a 42-year-old Pawtucket resident, was charged with receiving stolen property over $1,200 and receiving stolen property under $1,200 (four counts - tools/Lenovo computer/keys/prescriptions). The male was transported to the station for booking.

Officer Ruggiero contacted the Fall River Police Department regarding the prescriptions and was provided a phone number for the victim. The Warwick, R.I. Planet Fitness site was contacted and they reached out to the member who lost the Jeep keys.

As of this writing, the officer was waiting for the victim of the key theft to call back to determine if the evidence could be part of another crime. A few hours later, the victim of the prescription theft called and stated the prescriptions were stolen out of his vehicle in Seekonk, MA. He was provided with a case number to contact the Seekonk Police. Nice Work!

'The Father Bill's Play' At Eastern Nazarene College Feb. 13-15

Original Work Written By ENC
Theatre For Social Justice Program

"The Father Bill's Play," an original work conceived of and written by the Theatre for Social Justice program at Eastern Nazarene College (ENC) in Quincy, will premiere Feb. 13-15.

ENC became the first Christian college in the United States to launch a Theatre for Social Justice (TFSJ) program in 2018. With its mission focused on taking theatre beyond the stage by using it in communities, the program chose to address the topic of homelessness as its first engagement with the surrounding community.

The local Quincy shelter, Father Bill's Place agreed to open their doors for the project.

"Every guest at Father Bill's became like family by the end of our time there," said TFSJ chairperson Tara Brooke Watkins.

The TFSJ curriculum was developed in such a way that class instruction for social justice projects takes place in community. In spring 2019, the Applied Theatre class went to Father Bill's Place weekly and applied the theatrical engagement techniques they were studying. The students listened to guests' stories through a process called story circles, and then led theatre activities with the guests which empowered them to theatrically show their stories. Some activities encouraged people to change their stories as they would have wanted them changed, others included music and movement to show the hidden pain of their stories. At the end of the college semester, the students had ethnographic field notes, videos, and photos of all the stories and work. When they returned in fall 2019, they began work to create the play.

The final product has become a patchwork quilt pattern of the Father Bill's guests' stories, media clips demonstrating how and when stigmas get developed, the interviews exposing the responsibility of citizens and community members, and even the college student experience of homelessness and food insecurity. Senior theatre-major, Polly Gomes, has taken on the direction of the play for her senior project. She said, "I was changed by this experience, by listening to these stories. I hope to change other people's minds too. Anyone can be homeless and we can always do more to help."

Each performance will feature a post-show panel talkback with one of the guests whose story is in the play, a manager from Father Bill's Place, and the producer and program chair, Tara Brooke Watkins. In addition to an admission price, audience members are being asked to donate a new pair of socks or other winter gear.

The production runs Thursday, Feb. 13 through Saturday, Feb. 15 at the Cove Fine Arts Center at ENC. The college is following the play with a social justice day on Feb. 19 where students, staff, and faculty will engage in service projects around the themes of homelessness and food insecurity. All performances begin at 7:30 p.m.

While everyone is encouraged to come to the play, it does contain strong language and may not be suitable for children under 13.

Tickets prices are $5 children 12 and under; $8 students/seniors; $10 adults. All seating is general admission. Doors will open one half hour prior to curtain.

For tickets call 617-745-3715 or visit brownpapertickets.com and enter "Father Bill's" in the search box. Ticket links can also be found on enc.edu.

ENC will produce "Arsenic and Old Lace" in April.

McMorrow's Milestone Leads Quincy To Tourney Berth

Senior Captain Becomes 7th Player In School History To Score 1,000 Career Points

Quincy High School senior captain Ally McMorrow became the seventh player in school history to reach 1,000 career points as the Presidents clinched a tournament berth with an impressive 70-40 win over Hanover last Friday night.

The Indians had won six of their last seven games but this night belonged to McMorrow. Needing 25 points to notch her 1,000th career point, she scored 31 in the victory.

McMorrow was well on her way to her milestone in the first half scoring 17 points that put the Presidents ahead 38-18 at the half. It took only 4 minutes of the third quarter for her to score those final 8 points; appropriately reaching the milestone on a perfectly-timed backdoor pass from her childhood best friend and fellow all-star point guard Jillian O'Toole.

After initially being mobbed by her teammates, Ally was greeted with flowers by her mother Mary McMorrow, a teacher at Quincy High, and presented with the game ball by Coach Jeff Bretsch.

In his remarks, Coach Bretsch noted that there have only been six prior athletes to reach this milestone in the long history of Quincy basketball. (Jack Uhlar, Doug Scott, Dan Kelly, Kerrie Connolly, Bonnie Hirtle and Nicole Jorgensen). He noted that he remembered seeing an 8th grade Ally sitting in the stands when Nicole Jorgensen scored her 1,000th four years ago, and he thought he caught a twinkle in her eye that she might be next even back then. McMorrow finished the game with a career-high 31 points (6th best single game in school history) and received a standing ovation as she exited the floor. She graciously noted all the teammates that have helped to make this possible over the years and looks forward to the rest of the season.

In the win over Hanover, the entire Quincy team scored in the effort. Scorers included senior captain Brenna Tobin (8 points), senior captain Jillian O'Toole (6 points), senior captain Grace Hobin (6 points) and senior captain Juliana Tracey (7 points).

AN EMOTIONAL Ally McMorrow is surrounded by her teammates after scoring her 1,000 career point in Quincy's 70-40 win over Hanover last Friday night. With the win the Presidents clinched a spot in the Div. 1 South sectional basketball tournament. McMorrow is just the seventh Quincy High School player to score 1,000 points in school history. She is the first since Nicole Jorgensen who reached 1,000 points in 2016 and finished her career with 1,274 points. The other five 1,000 point scorers for QHS are Jack Uhlar (1,011 points, 1977); Kerrie Connolly (1,138 points, 1996); Dan Kelly (1,026 points, 2000); Bonnie Hirtle (1,348 points, 2004); and Doug Scott (1,555 points, 2008).

Two points.

That's what the North Quincy High boys' hockey team needs in their final three games of the regular season to secure a spot in the playoffs. They can reach that mark with either two ties or one win.

The Red Raiders put themselves in this favorable position with a strong week last week. They won all three of their games including a 3-1 contest against their in-city rival, the Quincy Presidents, at Quincy Youth Arena last Saturday. With the win, the Red Raiders improved to 8-7-3 on the season. With the loss, the Presidents fell to 3-11-2.

"It's a rivalry game," Red Raiders head coach Matt Gibbons said. "These guys know each other. There's no secrets at all. This is what you get every single time. We're just happy we're on the other side of it. These are two huge points for us."

Beating Quincy High is great, but our focus is on clinching this tournament. This was a huge win for us in that way. There were two points on the line today and we had to have them."

"Our effort was good," Presidents head coach Ted Walsh Jr. said. "We played hard. We outshot them, but they outscored us which is what really matters. You've got to give them credit. It was a great game up and down the ice. The fans were treated. I thought both teams played hard. Unfortunately, one team loses and one team wins. Like I said to my boys, 'if you left everything out there on the ice, you'll be able to come to grips with this one on Sunday.' Right now it hurts."

Neither team scored in the first half of the game.

However, with 5:31 remaining in the second period, sophomore defenseman James Hooley changed that on a power play, netting the first goal of the contest for the Red Raiders. Senior defenseman Cormac Flaherty had the assist on the goal.

About two minutes into the third period, the Red Raiders doubled their lead. This time, sophomore forward Michael Steele buried one in the back of the net, assisted by freshman forward James Rogers.

However, the Presidents kept fighting and responded with a goal of their own with 7:40 remaining in the game. Sophomore defenseman Zach Galligan netted an unassisted goal on a power play to make it a 2-1 game.

This score would hold for more than five minutes. With 1:23 left to play, junior forward Ronan Kelly added an insurance goal that was assisted by both junior defenseman Sean Feeney and junior forward Mike Izzo. This gave the Red Raiders a 3-1 edge which would end up being the final score.

Gibbons also said junior goalie Asher Wines' performance stood out to him in the victory.

The game was senior night for both teams. Before the game, each team recognized their respective senior classes.

For the Red Raiders, this included: senior defenseman Peyton McGaffigan, senior defenseman Andrew Hally, senior forward Connor Kulig, senior defenseman Cormac Flaherty, and senior forward Dylan Connors.

During their playoff run, the Red Raiders have had the added challenge of playing without two two of their seniors: Hally and Kulig, both of whom are injured at the moment.

"It's been tough. I think everyone knows about the Connor situation, but we're just so happy he's here in the locker room, goofing around with everybody. We'd love to have him on the ice, sure, but we're just happy to have him around after what happened. It stinks that we can't have those two on the ice, but they're just as much a part of this team even if they're not playing."

Missing two quality players is just one obstacle the team has to overcome in their hunt for a playoff spot. Lately, however, Gibbons has been pleasantly surprised by his team.

"A month ago, if you told me we were going to have this week, I probably would've told you that you're crazy," he said of his team's three-game win streak. "We just didn't know where we were going with things. We just weren't clicking. We beat Silver Lake, then we went to Whitman-Hanson and played tough and lost in a heart breaker, but that gave us some momentum headed into this week. This team has clicked at the right time and I hope it continues."

On the Quincy side, this included: senior forward Nick Buonopane, senior forward John O'Brien, senior forward Thomas MacPherson, senior forward Jake DeFranco, senior defenseman Brendan Bailey, senior forward Ryan Quirk, senior defenseman Joseph Murphy, senior forward Ryan

NQ Boys Basketball Bows To Plymouth South, 55-44

By TOM JOYCE

A strong start was not enough to propel the North Quincy High boys' basketball team to victory last Friday night.

The Red Raiders faced off against a young Plymouth South Panthers team on the road and while they enjoyed their share of success early in the match, their opponent surged late in it. As a result, the Red Raiders dropped the contest 55-44 and fell to 11-5 on the season.

"Plymouth South played very well and we probably had our worst game of the season," Red Raiders head coach Kevin Barrett said. "We had a hard time scoring when we had the ball. I thought the defense did a nice job in the first half and that kept us somewhat competitive, but that wasn't the case in the second half. Credit goes to Plymouth South."

Steve Dalla (10 points) started the game off strong for the Red Raiders, hitting a pair of three-pointers in the first four minutes of the game. Then, Aaron Huang (8 points) made a pair of free throws to tie things up at 8-8, sparking a 11-0 run that would extend into the second quarter. Huang led the surge, netting six of the 11 points, four of which came on free throws. Colby

St. Marie (7 points) put the team up by three points with a layup in traffic and a free-throw with about 2:30 remaining. After one quarter, the Red Raiders led 15-8.

Plymouth South would go on to outscore the Red Raiders in the second quarter, but they still managed to protect their lead going into the second half. After two quarters, they led 25-23.

Plymouth South started the second quarter off strong. Although Colm Geary sank a layup with 6:30 remaining to put the team up by nine points, Plymouth South went on an 8-0 run of their own to get right back into the game. It started with a quick three-pointer on their next possession and concluded with a player on their team hitting three free throws with 4:41 left in the half after being fouled while attempting a three-point shot.

Offensive success late in the quarter allowed the Red Raiders to preserve their lead. This included a layup by St. Marie with 2:28 remaining that put them up 21-19 and a three from sophomore Ethan Gao gave them a five-point lead with 1:16 left.

The Red Raiders had some offensive success early in the third quarter as Agu Ugwu (10 points) sank a layup with 6:43 left in the third to start things off. Then, Huang made a pair of free throws with 4:25 remaining to give the team a 29-25 edge.

From there, however, Plymouth South would surge, going on a 16-3 run where the Red Raiders only scored once. Six of Plymouth South's 10 points of the run in the third quarter came on three-pointers.

Plymouth South's success continued into the fourth quarter, particularly on defense. The Red Raiders would not score in the first three minutes of the fourth quarter; Ugwu busted up the run with a free throw to make it a 41-33 game with 4:57 remaining.

The closest the Red Raiders would cut their deficit to was six points. This happened after Ugwu hit a three with 3:13 remaining and made it a 44-38 game. However, Plymouth would go on to outscore them 11-6 in the final stretch of the game, preventing a comeback.

The first time the two teams faced off, North Quincy won the game. However, that Jan. 10 contest was highly competitive. North Quincy won 57-56.

"We had a dogfight with them the first time around," Barrett said. "We were lucky to get out of there with a win. We knew we were going to have our hands full. They were just too much for us tonight, and credit to them."

The Red Raiders will make the playoffs this season. They qualified for the postseason tournament with a 51-41 win over Hanover Jan. 31.

Barrett said his team will continue working hard to prepare for the tournament.

"Now that we're in, it's just a matter of putting ourselves in a position where we could potentially have a home game and make some noise in the tournament," he said.

"We've got some things to clean up, but overall we're happy with where we are right now," he added. "We've just got to make sure this isn't a skid that's going to continue. We're hoping we can right this ship and take care of business next week."

The Red Raiders will visit Quincy in the second game of a basketball doubleheader Saturday at QHS. The girls teams play at 5:30 p.m. followed by the boys teams at 7 p.m.

Bergin, and senior forward Jake McGahey.

Although the Presidents are not going to make the playoffs this season, Walsh said they are going to continue competing to the best of their ability.

"We're going to keep plugging away," he said. "There's no quit on this side. We're out of the tournament, but we're not going to treat it that way. I'm never gonna quit as a coach and I don't expect them to quit as players."

NQ Girls Fall Short Against Panthers

North's girls basketball team, despite dropping both games last week, turned in a stirring second half comeback against Plymouth South before coming up short in a 52-46 home loss.

On Senior Night when North honored their five seniors, the Red Raiders only managed a Phoebe Johnston bucket in the first quarter, falling behind by 13 after one quarter. North could only manage three pointers by sophomore Stephanie Huang and a deep three by senior guard Alexa Radzik. Trailing by 18 at halftime, the Red and Black lit up the gymnasium scoring 20 third quarter points with a torrid shooting performance. Fallon Hobin and Amanda Hellmuth, who were held to zero points in the opening half, led the way with 8 points each. Isabella Thong, who had a monster game on the boards, had two free throws and a hoop by Ashley Caldwell as all five seniors scored in the game. In the final 8 minutes, Huang caught fire from the outside, draining 3 three pointers, in her best performance of the year. Thong added a basket while Hellmuth and Hobin helped to close the gap to the final difference of 6. Hellmuth also took three charges while Radzik had a great floor game and also played lock down defense.

A lackluster performance against Silver Lake from start to finish resulted in a 56-22 defeat. Another poor shooting night by North resulted in a hole they could not dig themselves out of. Hellmuth was the lone bright spot for North hitting for 13 points while Caldwell and Bridget Capone added 4 and 3 points respectively.

"This team never quits as the Plymouth South game showed," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "It reminded me of the comeback win against Hull last year when we came back from 9 down with a minute and a half left. Although we were not victorious, all five seniors contributed something to the effort. Phoebe Johnston, who has been trying to get back since she injured her knee at Plymouth South, showed a lot of heart playing and scoring in this game even though she is not 100 percent. I thought all our seniors played with grit and never say die attitudes which says a lot about who they are."

North hosts Pembroke Thursday at 6:30 p.m. and visits Quincy Saturday night for a 5:30 p.m. tip off.

O'Donnell Promotes AED Legislation

With February being designated American Heart Month, Norfolk County Register of Deeds William O'Donnell has reaffirmed his support for legislation (H.1789) that would place Automatic External Defibrillators (AED) in Norfolk County governmental buildings.

"H.1789, currently before the Massachusetts House of Representatives, would place an AED in each of the ten Norfolk County governmental facilities," O'Donnell said. "An AED is a lightweight, portable device that delivers an electric shock through the chest to the heart. The shock can potentially stop an irregular heart beat (arrhythmia) and allows for a normal rhythm to resume following sudden cardiac arrest."

Previously, O'Donnell, along with the bill's lead sponsor, state Rep. Denise Garlick (D-Needham) and co-sponsor state Sen. Paul Feeney (D-Foxborough) had testified before the Legislature's Joint Committee on Municipalities and Regional Government committee in support of the legislation.

"Of the cardiac arrest deaths occurring each year, more than 95 percent of the victims never reached the hospital," O'Donnell said. "According to the Occupational Safety Health Administration, using a defibrillator on individuals in cardiac arrest increases their survival rate by 60 percent."

O'Donnell added: "In addition to requiring that an AED be installed in each of the 10 Norfolk County governmental facilities, the legislation also requires that at least one employee or volunteer be trained in its use and be on the building's grounds during business hours."

Since 2010, the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds, at its own initiative and expense, has installed an AED on each of the three floors of the Registry of Deeds building, maintained the equipment and trained its employees to use the AED equipment. "We believe the small cost required to purchase an AED and train employees is well spent when you consider the potential lives that could be saved," O'Donnell said.

In conclusion, O'Donnell said:

"American Heart Month is a good time for all citizens to reflect and raise awareness about heart disease, how to prevent it, and steps that can be taken in the event of cardiac arrest. If a cardiac arrest incident does occur, the difference between life and death may be the availability of a functioning AED unit."

"H.1789 is a proactive piece of legislation requiring an AED in the 10 Norfolk County governmental facilities. The legislation, currently before the House Committee on Bills in the Third Reading, has received strong support from Rep. Garlick, Sen. Feeney and the Norfolk County state house delegation as a whole. It is hoped the Massachusetts Legislature will advance this important, common sense legislation."

'Stump The Pastor' At Quincy Point Church

Feb. 16 features a fun change of format with a Stump the Pastor sermon segment during worship which begins at 10 a.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

Rev. Kimberly Murphy had invited people to write out any question they may have about church, theology, God and the world, Jesus, the Bible, different beliefs, Christianity – anything on one's mind – and place it in the Sermon Box, and now this Sunday she will respond to your questions during the Sermon.

After worship, come to the downstairs social hall coffee, light snacks and fellowship. While there visit the Big Blue Q table (and out bulletin boards) to find out about what is happening at QPCC. The sanctuary and Social Hall are both "accessible to all" via an elevator on the Abbey Road side of the building.

The next large event is a St. Patrick's Day Dinner with the Island Grove Chorus on March 14, to support Australian Fire Relief. QPCC will be raising funds in a few different events over the next few months to support both the Port Maëquarie Koala Hospital and St. Vincent de Paul Australia.

This is a family friendly event. Adult tickets cost $25 and can be purchased online at Eventbrite.com. Students are $12.50 and children 7 and under are free. These tickets can be purchased at the church on Sunday or contact the office @ 617-773-6424.

Also save the date of Feb. 23, for Shrove Tuesday Pancakes on a Sunday. Check out our social media or monthly newsletter on www.quincypointcong.org for more details.

Does the idea of being a part of a Bible study sound interesting, but the idea of heading back out to church after a long day at work sound decidedly uninteresting? Does the idea of being part of a Bible study but doing so in the comfort of your own home sound fun? Then this is the Bible Study for you.

During the six weeks of Lent, QPCC will be offering Acts: Catching Up with the Union Congregational Church Welcomes New Members

Union Congregational Church welcomed in three new members Feb. 9. The church has been blessed with many gifts such as new worshipers, servants of the Lord, and answers to prayers.

The Sunday morning worship service begins at 10 a.m. Rev. Joy Eng Matos leads the service with enthusiasm. She is a Spirit-filled minister who preaches the Word of God, the Holy Scriptures, in a vibrant and inspirational way.

Spirit. Catching Up with the Spirit is an easy to grasp, lively, and thought provoking introduction to one of the most important books in the New Testament, especially for all Christians.

So how does this work? Zoom is an online meeting platform that allows participants to see and hear one another – it is like a conference call, but with multiple people connecting with each other.

Union Congregational Church is a warm, friendly, neighborhood church located on the corner of Beach Street and Rawson Road in Wollaston. All are welcome to attend and hear the Word of the Lord.

A Fellowship/ Coffee Hour follows the worship service.

For more information, call the church at 617-479-6661, send an email to UcWoll@gmail.com or visit the website at www.Union-CongWoll.org.

Zoom is easy to use; QPCC Council has used Zoom for meetings and the MACUCC has used Zoom for a number of years.

The first Zoom meeting will be Wednesday, March 4 from 7 to 8 p.m. If you are interested, sign up under the Big Blue Q in the Social Hall on Sunday mornings or contact Rev. Kim for additional information. Books will be ordered soon, so don't wait.

First Baptist Church Of Wollaston

She had impeccable taste for fashion and loved to travel. Most of all, Mrs. Casey loved her family, especially her nieces and nephews to whom she was like a second mother. She will be missed by all who had the pleasure to have known her.

Kari K. Salomaa, 68

Kari K. Salomaa unexpectedly died quietly in his sleep in late November 2018. He was 68 years old. He had been resting with Susan Barquist, his life partner, after a morning of working together in their forest north of Jenner, felling and limbing dead oak trees.

A naturalized citizen, Mr. Salomaa came to the U.S. at age two from Finland with his parents, Matti and Hanna Salomaa. He was the eldest of four children. The family lived in Quincy. Parents and brother Paul predeceased Mr. Salomaa.

He is survived by his brother and sister-in-law Sam and Raija Salomaa, and nieces Anna and Liisa Salomaa as well as by his sister and her husband, Ruth and Joel Luna, and niece Sara Luna and nephew, Joosseppi Luna.

Mr. Salomaa excelled at North Quincy High School, class of 1968. He was awarded a full academic scholarship to MIT. There, he enjoyed intensive study and mastery of sailing on the Charles River for five years while also studying a wide range of scientific offerings. He found his passion, graduating in 1973 in mechanical engineering, which he practiced his entire career and in his home shop after parting from HP (Agilent) in 2002.

He was an innovative and technically brilliant inventor, taking products through to full manufacturing, devising manufacturing analysis, tooling and methods. Patent topics include microdilution automation (Cetus) and light-wave technology (Hewlett Packard/Agilent Technology).

On and off the job, Mr. Salomaa was the Go-To-Person for "How does this work?" type questions, which he relished, and always had time for clear explanations and interesting examples. He also had a vast repertoire of tales about his experiences and observations and was a consummate and engaging storyteller. Topics ranged from his childhood bank account getting swapped for his father's to repairing major structural damage to his motorcycle inflicted by a tornado in Missouri, using tools and materials from a big box store across the road from the motel. He was so pleased with his impromptu repair results that the fix continued 'as is' for the full 8,000 mile trip. Before the long trips, Mr. Salomaa always tore down his favorite motorcycle, a BMW K100 RS and spent time admiring the fine details and lack of wear of the well maintained and beautifully engineered parts while rebuilding it back to trip readiness.

Susan and Mr. Salomaa were joyful motorcycle riding companions for more than 40 years. They lived happily on their very steep 50 acres of Redwood forest a mile from the Pacific Ocean, north of the town of Jenner, California. They designed and constructed their own buildings and worked in their forest and garden as well as at their engineering careers. Mr. Salomaa served 15 years on the Jenner Volunteer Fire Department (Susan, ten) in the '80s and '90s. They responded to emergency calls from home where Mr. Salomaa maintained one of the Jenner engines. They traveled to Finland many times to sightsee and visit relatives and friends. In the US and Canada, the travel was usually two-up or Mr. Salomaa alone on motorcycle. He enjoyed many four to six week long explorations of back roads in 49 states and all of Canada. Mr. Salomaa always engaged people he encountered with open and congenial conversation and assistance if needed on the roadside, at stores, cafes, the Post Office, jobsites, campsites - everywhere.

Looking back in later years he estimated that he might have approached a million motorcycle miles including the road trips, commuting to work and recreation started in pre-teen years.

He loved every minute of it.

Ride on.

on Feb. 6. Each MBTA subway line will see partial closures this year as the transit agency looks to accelerate repairs to its infrastructure. The MBTA said this year's closures will allow the work to be completed eight years sooner than originally planned.

"Our administration is dedicated to building a better MBTA for our riders that is safer and more reliable, and the 2020 Infrastructure Acceleration Plan will help to achieve this goal faster," said Gov. Charlie Baker.

"The MBTA started these projects in 2019 and will continue a vigorous schedule of construction and repairs aimed to build a system that will move more people from point to point in less time. The T has worked hard to minimize disruptions for riders for the 2020 projects by continuing to provide alternative transportation services and has also developed a new web map so riders can get the information easily during this process."

Weeknight evening closures between Quincy Center and Braintree will begin in March and continue through August, according to MBTA spokeswoman Lisa Battison. Weekend closures between those same stations will take place in May. Shuttle buses will run between Quincy Center and Braintree stations, with an intermediate stop at Quincy Adams, during those times.

Regular train service will run on Monday, April 20, because of the Boston Marathon.

In addition, the Greenbush, Kingston/Plymouth and Middleborough Commuter Rail lines will terminate at Braintree, rather than South Station, during the first three weekends of May. Inbound riders can transfer to a shuttle at Braintree and then board the Red Line at Quincy Center. Outbound riders would do the opposite.

The T is also running weekend shuttle buses between Alewife and Harvard stations on the northern section of the Red Line most weekends through April 26. Regular train service will run the weekends of Feb.

15 and 16, March 14 and 15, and April 18 and 19.

Other upcoming service changes include the closure of the street-level portion of the Green Line's C Branch during the month of July and the E Branch in August. There will be weekend diversions on the B Branch between Boston College and Babcock Street during three weekends in June and night and weekend diversions along the D Branch through the end of the year.

Shuttle buses will also run between North Station and Lechmere between May 2020 and April 2021 as the MBTA repairs the Lechmere Viaduct and prepares to open a new Lechmere station as part of the Green Line extension project.

On the Blue Line, there will be 19 weekend diversions between Bowdoin and Airport stations between May and November.

There will also be seven diversions along the Orange Line between Oak Grove and Sullivan Square from October to December.

Memorial Service Saturday For Otilie M. Scales, 94

A memorial service for Otilie M. Scales, 94, of Wollaston will be held Saturday at 11 a.m. in Union Congregational Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Scales died Jan. 19 at Dwyer Home South Weymouth.

She was born in Rockland to Hall B. and Marguerite W. Carpenter. Her parents named their daughter, Otilie, after a prominent character in Sigmund Romberg's popular musical "Maytime." She was predeceased by her fraternal twin, Rev. Alan M. Carpenter of Peterboro, N.H., in 1994, and her brother Bryant L. Carpenter of Wilbraham in 2014. She is survived by nieces Joyce Carpenter-Henderson of Clinton and Gerry Rollinger of Lee and by nephews James Carpenter of Pembroke, N.H., Robert Carpenter of Concord, NH, William Carpenter of Fennimore, W.I., and Wesley Carpenter of Lisbon Falls, ME, alongside several great nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Scales graduated from Rockland High in June 1943. She married her high school sweetheart, Allen F. Bailey on Jan. 22, 1944, when she was 18 years old. Mr. Bailey was a student at Northeastern University when he entered the service with the US Navy on Dec. 19, 1942. He later served as a crew member of the submarine USS Barbel as an electrician's mate. His submarine was lost in the Pacific theater Feb. 4, 1945. Overnight, Mrs. Scales became a World War II widow and was embraced by the love and fellowship of Rockland Congregational Church.

Mrs. Scales was an accomplished soprano singer with a coloratura range. She sang in the following church choirs and served as the soprano soloist: Rockland Congregational Church, UCC (starting in 1943); Old South Congregational Church, UCC, Boston (10 years); Mission Hills-First Congregational, UCC, San Diego, (7 years); Wollaston Congregational Church, UCC Wollaston; Union Congregational Church Wollaston (starting in 1966); Christ Evangelical Church, Middleborough; and Community United Methodist Church, Wollaston.

She performed in the following area choruses: Commonwealth Chorale First Baptist Church Boston; Cecelia Society Chorus; Concord Chorus; Eastern Nazarene College Choral Union; and John Hancock FCA Chorus.

Most notably, she was a member of the Boston Cecilia (Chorus for the BSO) for about 10 years in her youth (1940s), during the Serge Koussevitzky and Arthur Fiedler era, singing a repertoire with her beautiful, lyric soprano voice that included Brahms Requiem for audiences at Symphony Hall. Mrs. Scales cherished her association with these iconic cultural institutions and nurtured enduring friendships.

She married Walter L. Scales on Feb. 16, 1953, in the Gordon Chapel of the Old South Church, Copley Square, Boston. The newlyweds moved to San Diego and later divorced in May 1966.

When Mrs. Scales returned from California following her marriage breakup, she was embraced by Wollaston Congregational Church congregation. She served as Sunday School superintendent, taught many Sunday School classes. In addition, she directed children and youth choirs featuring their young voices at special church services. For many years, she provided childcare for Rev. Jack and Martha Swanson daughters Stephanie and Cassandra and was loved by this clergy family. She accompanied both ministers on nursing home services and Bible studies.

She lived in Wollaston on the Quincy town line for many years and commuted in to work as an administrative assistant for John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance. She took advantage of John Hancock sponsored travel tours and traveled with her colleagues to Switzerland, Belgium, Germany, France, Italy and Austria. Often at family gatherings, she would show photographic slides of the majestic European church cathedrals and cultural sites. She retired from John Hancock in 1987.

Mrs. Scales was an avid reader particularly enjoying historical and romantic novels. On weekends, she watched non-stop college and professional football games. She cheered the N.E. Patriots onto many Super Bowl victories. She often said she was content within herself preferred time alone at home. She listened to WCRB classical music and enjoyed the PBS masterpiece theater.

The Rev. Jack Swanson will officiate the memorial service and niece Joyce Carpenter-Henderson will be the organist.

Memorial donations may be made to the Music Ministry of First Church of Christ, Congregational, 678 Lynnfield St., Lynn, MA 01904 and Serenity Coffeehouse c/o Joyce Carpenter-Henderson, 96 Haskell Ave, Clinton, MA 01510.

Funeral arrangements were made by Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., Quincy.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) All that flattery and fawning shouldn't affect any decision you have to make. Keep your focus on the facts and ignore all the hyperbole, especially if it gets uncomfortably personal.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your Bovine instincts are on the mark about that "favor" you're being asked to do. Agree to nothing unless you get a full explanation -- which you would check out first, of course.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A somewhat unsettled recent period should give way to a smoother time going through the week. Use this quieter time to catch up on matters you might have had to let slide.
CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Feeling a little confused is understandable with all those mixed messages. Take time to list the questions you have. Then present them and insist on answers that make sense.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Cupid can be very helpful for Lions seeking a love connection. The chubby cherub also brings warm and fuzzy feelings to paired Leos and Leonas who already share a special love line.
VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Travel is favored this week, whether you'll be globe-trotting or taking a trip to a nearby getaway. You might be surprised (or maybe not) by who wants to be your traveling companion.
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Getting advice on your next business-related move is a good idea, but only if your advisers are trustworthy. Get references that you can check out before you make any decisions.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Getting a boost in your self-esteem is one benefit that comes with a job well done. There are other plusses as well, including being noticed by all the right people. Good luck.
SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Make time to deal with family matters, especially where they concern your elderly kinfolk. Being there for them from the start can help resolve problems sooner rather than later.
CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Getting a project started can often be difficult. But the good news is that you won't want for lack of assistance from colleagues who would like to work with you. So, let them!
AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A lot of work-related issues might be raised this week, and you need to be prepared for whatever comes along. Things should be easier when it comes to matters in your private life.
PISCES (February 19 to March 20) What might appear to be a much unwanted change in your life right now could turn out to be a very welcome event after all. Give yourself a chance to see where it might take you.
BORN THIS WEEK: You exercise your strong leadership qualities well, which is why people believe in you and feel reassured by you.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- Bradley Cooper will follow his "A Star Is Born" success with Guillermo del Toro's "Nightmare Alley," co-starring Cate Blanchett, then direct himself in the title role in the upcoming Netflix bio-picture of Leonard Bernstein. Bernstein is best remembered for his groundbreaking score of "West Side Story," which Steven Spielberg has just completed remaking for a December release. In addition, Bernstein scored the classic Marlon Brando film "On the Waterfront," the Broadway musicals "Candide," "Wonderful Town" (for which he won a Tony Award), "Peter Pan" and "On the Town" (for which he earned his only Oscar nomination when it was made into a movie with Frank Sinatra and Gene Kelly). He also won 16 Grammys and seven Emmys. Even though Bernstein was married and fathered three children, the film will deal with his extramarital affairs with men. He died five days after retiring, at 72. Because of the pre-release success of "The Irishman," Netflix will give it a limited theatrical release before making it available for streaming.

Once upon a time in Hollywood there were five major studios: Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer (MGM), Warner Brothers, Columbia, Paramount and 20th Century Fox. Between them they created the majority of the greatest films made from the 1935 through the 1960s (when the studio system began to decline due to the success of television). MGM claimed they had "More stars than in the heavens." Warner Bros. had Bette Davis, Olivia De Havilland, Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall. Columbia made "It Happened One Night," "From Here to Eternity" and "On the Waterfront." Paramount had Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, and the "Road" pictures with Bob Hope and Bing Crosby. Fox gave us Marilyn Monroe, "All About Eve," "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," "M*A*S*H," "The King and I," "The Sound of Music" and the "Star Wars" saga.

When the crash came, MGM sold its backlot to condo builders. Sony acquired Columbia, then bought what was left of the MGM lot and moved Columbia there. Warners and Paramount had no backlots but retained their studios, while 20th Century Fox sold its backlot, which became Century City.

Now Disney has acquired 20th Century Fox and stripped it of the Fox name, calling it 20th Century Studios. When I moved to Hollywood, in 1967, I was able to explore and wander around the still-great studios, then more into TV production, such as "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" at Fox, and "Dr. Kildare" at MGM. I was in heaven. The five major studios paved the way for the new wave of movie-making today, operated by five streaming services: Netflix, Disney+, Amazon Prime, Hulu and Apple. Time marches on ... either love it or don't stream it!

KOVELS' Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Lincoln Carving --- President Abraham Lincoln has been memorialized in many ways since his death in 1865, but there are things that few people remember today.

1. The president and his wife, Mary Todd, had four sons. Three died young. "Eddie" (Edward Baker) Lincoln, born in 1846, died at 3 years old in 1850. "Willie" (William Wallace) was born in 1850 and died in 1862 at the age of 11. Son Thomas, called "Tad," was born in 1853 and died at 18 in 1871. But their first-born son, Robert Todd, was born in 1843 and lived until 1926, passing at the age of 82.

2. President Lincoln was the tallest president. He was 6 feet, 4 inches tall.

3. Lincoln's birthday is Feb. 12, 1809.

4. President Lincoln did not smoke and rarely drank alcohol. He drank water with meals.

Try some of President Lincoln's favorite foods on President's Day. One of his favorites was apples. He held an apple with his thumb and forefinger, and ate it from the bottom. Some say he also liked chicken fricassee with biscuits, and most reports say he enjoyed oyster stew. Mary Todd Lincoln used "Miss Leslie's Complete Cookery" cookbook that is still available at bookstores today.

Q: Any guides for surviving asbestos contamination for collectors? Collector friends just had a roof collapse and their crowded house is contaminated. What can be saved?

A: Collectors have special problems. All upholstered furniture, textiles, clothing, medicine, food and more probably must go. Furniture can be reupholstered if the frame is valuable. Ceramics, glass, jewelry, bronzes and other hard-surface items probably can be cleaned but that requires special protective gear and instructions to avoid contact with dust. Dolls, most toys, paintings, photographs, books and everything paper may be contaminated.

The government and other sites online give detailed instructions. Search for specialized advice from collector clubs, blogs and government agencies. Don't try to do this alone. The dust is almost invisible and will be stirred up if not properly removed. Store all the "safe" collectibles off-site until you know what to save. You can't replace memories, but you can find more collectibles.

Q: Is there an easy way to spot a reproduction Booz cabin bottle? I know a lot were made.

A: Look at the raised word "WHISKEY" on the side of the bottle. On original Booz bottles, the top fork of the letter K is wider than the bottom fork. On most repros, the bottom fork is wider.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was American cartoonist, humorist and journalist Kin Hubbard who made the following sage observation: "There's no secret about success. Did you ever know a successful man who didn't tell you about it?"

* Next time you're in Iowa, you might want to stop by the rural town of Riverside, which touts itself as the future birthplace of Captain James T. Kirk. Yep, the future birthplace. It seems that "Star Trek" creator Gene Roddenberry asserted that the character of James Tiberius Kirk was born in Iowa, but he didn't specify exactly where. In 1985, the Riverside City Council voted to declare their town the future birthplace of the character, later writing to Roddenberry and receiving his approval. In honor of its newfound claim to fame, the city began hosting an annual Trek Fest, complete with a Spockapalooza battle of the bands.

* If you enjoy cooking, you might have heard of some of the following cookbooks: "Kill It and Grill It," "The Joy of Pickling," "Full of Beans," "The Stinking Cookbook" and "I Can't Believe It's Not Meat!" Then again, maybe not.

* The term "bric-a-brac," usually used to refer to a collection of tawdry trinkets, comes from the French, where its original meaning was "at random."

* Most parents of small children know that trampolines can be dangerous, and they are. Every year, nearly 100,000 people receive emergency-room treatment for injuries sustained while using trampolines. Those injuries are hardly ever fatal, though. Pools, on the other hand, are far more deadly; more than 1,000 people in the United States die in swimming pools annually.

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* "For uniform cookies, roll and freeze your dough for 10-15 minutes. Most doughs will harden enough to slice into perfectly even slices, and the freezing doesn't really affect cooking time too much. (Watch your first batch, though.)"

-- R.L. in Missouri

* If you are reattaching a button to shorts or pants, try using dental floss, the unwaxed kind. It's much stronger and can hold the button better than regular thread. Use a marker to darken it if the color is an issue.

* "Here's a use for large plastic jugs: Cut off the bottom and use as a megaphone at sports games. Assemble the younger siblings off field and let each have his or her own megaphone. They can be decorated with stickers. Have the kids make up a cheer."

-- T.T. in Texas

* Dampen a paper towel with vinegar and put it into your kid's lunchbox after you wipe it out. Zip up and leave overnight. It absorbs smells.

* "Use a hair dryer on the warm setting to dry out boots that have gotten wet inside. Check often to make sure it's not getting too hot inside. Remove insoles if possible." -- D.E. in Nebraska

* Need an easy substitute for buttermilk? Squeeze lemon juice into milk, and let it sit for 10-15 minutes before using.
